The North Pole postman is as busy as busy can be . . .

... as millions of children send their Christmas wish lists to Santa.

Santa reads each and every letter . . .

... and then he and his elves get to work.

Susan wrote a letter to Santa and asked for a cuddly bear . . .

... while Jane wants a doll with long,
curly hair.

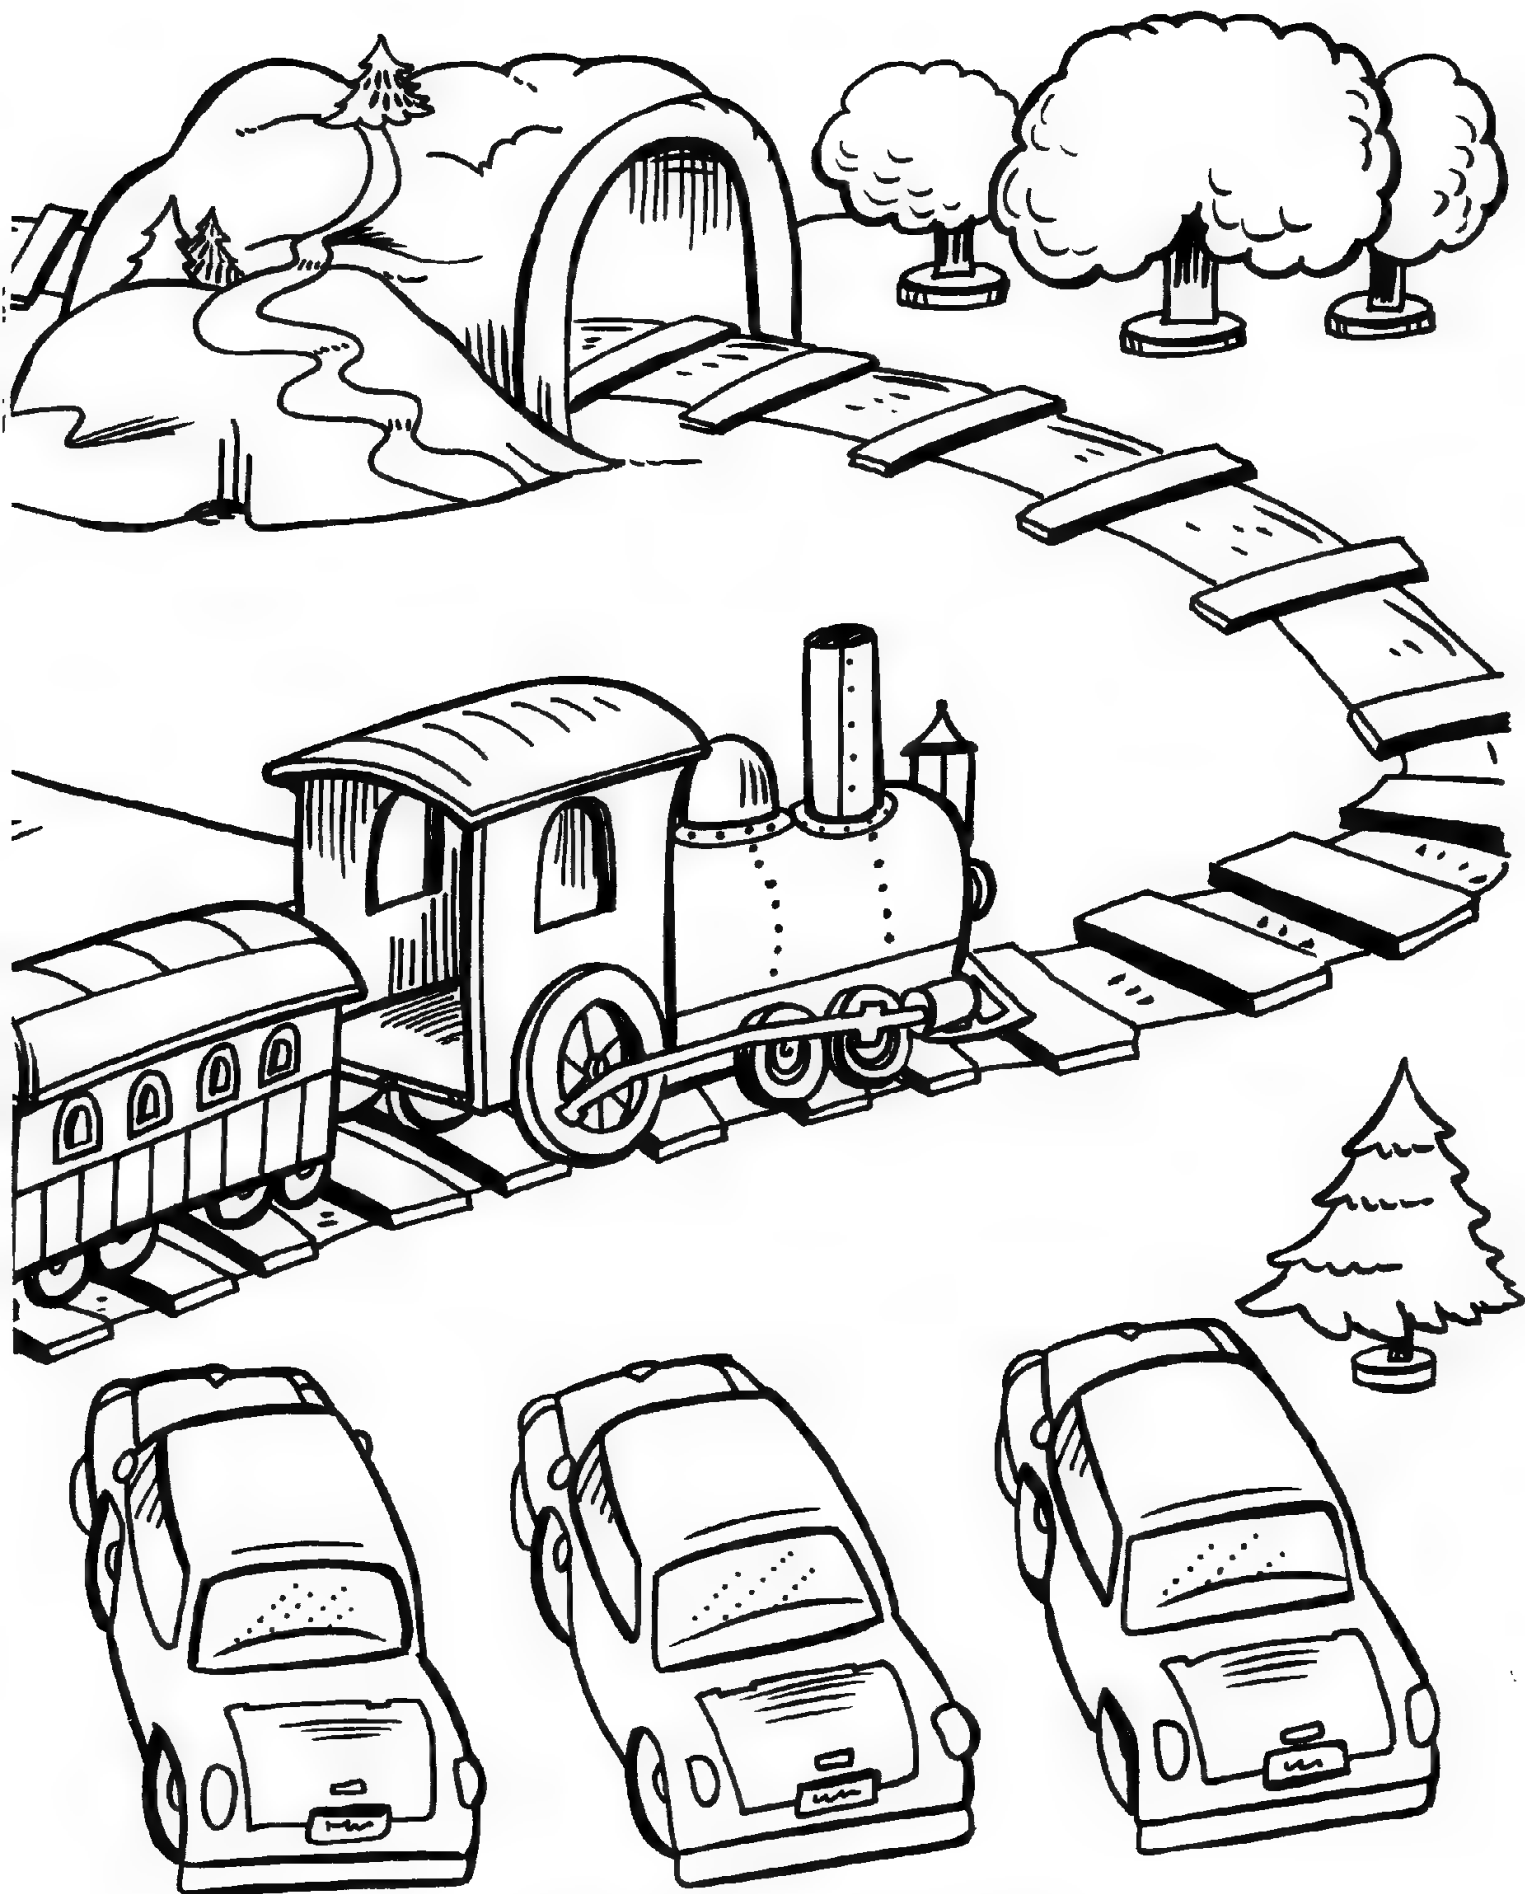

Teddy asked Santa for a wooden sled.

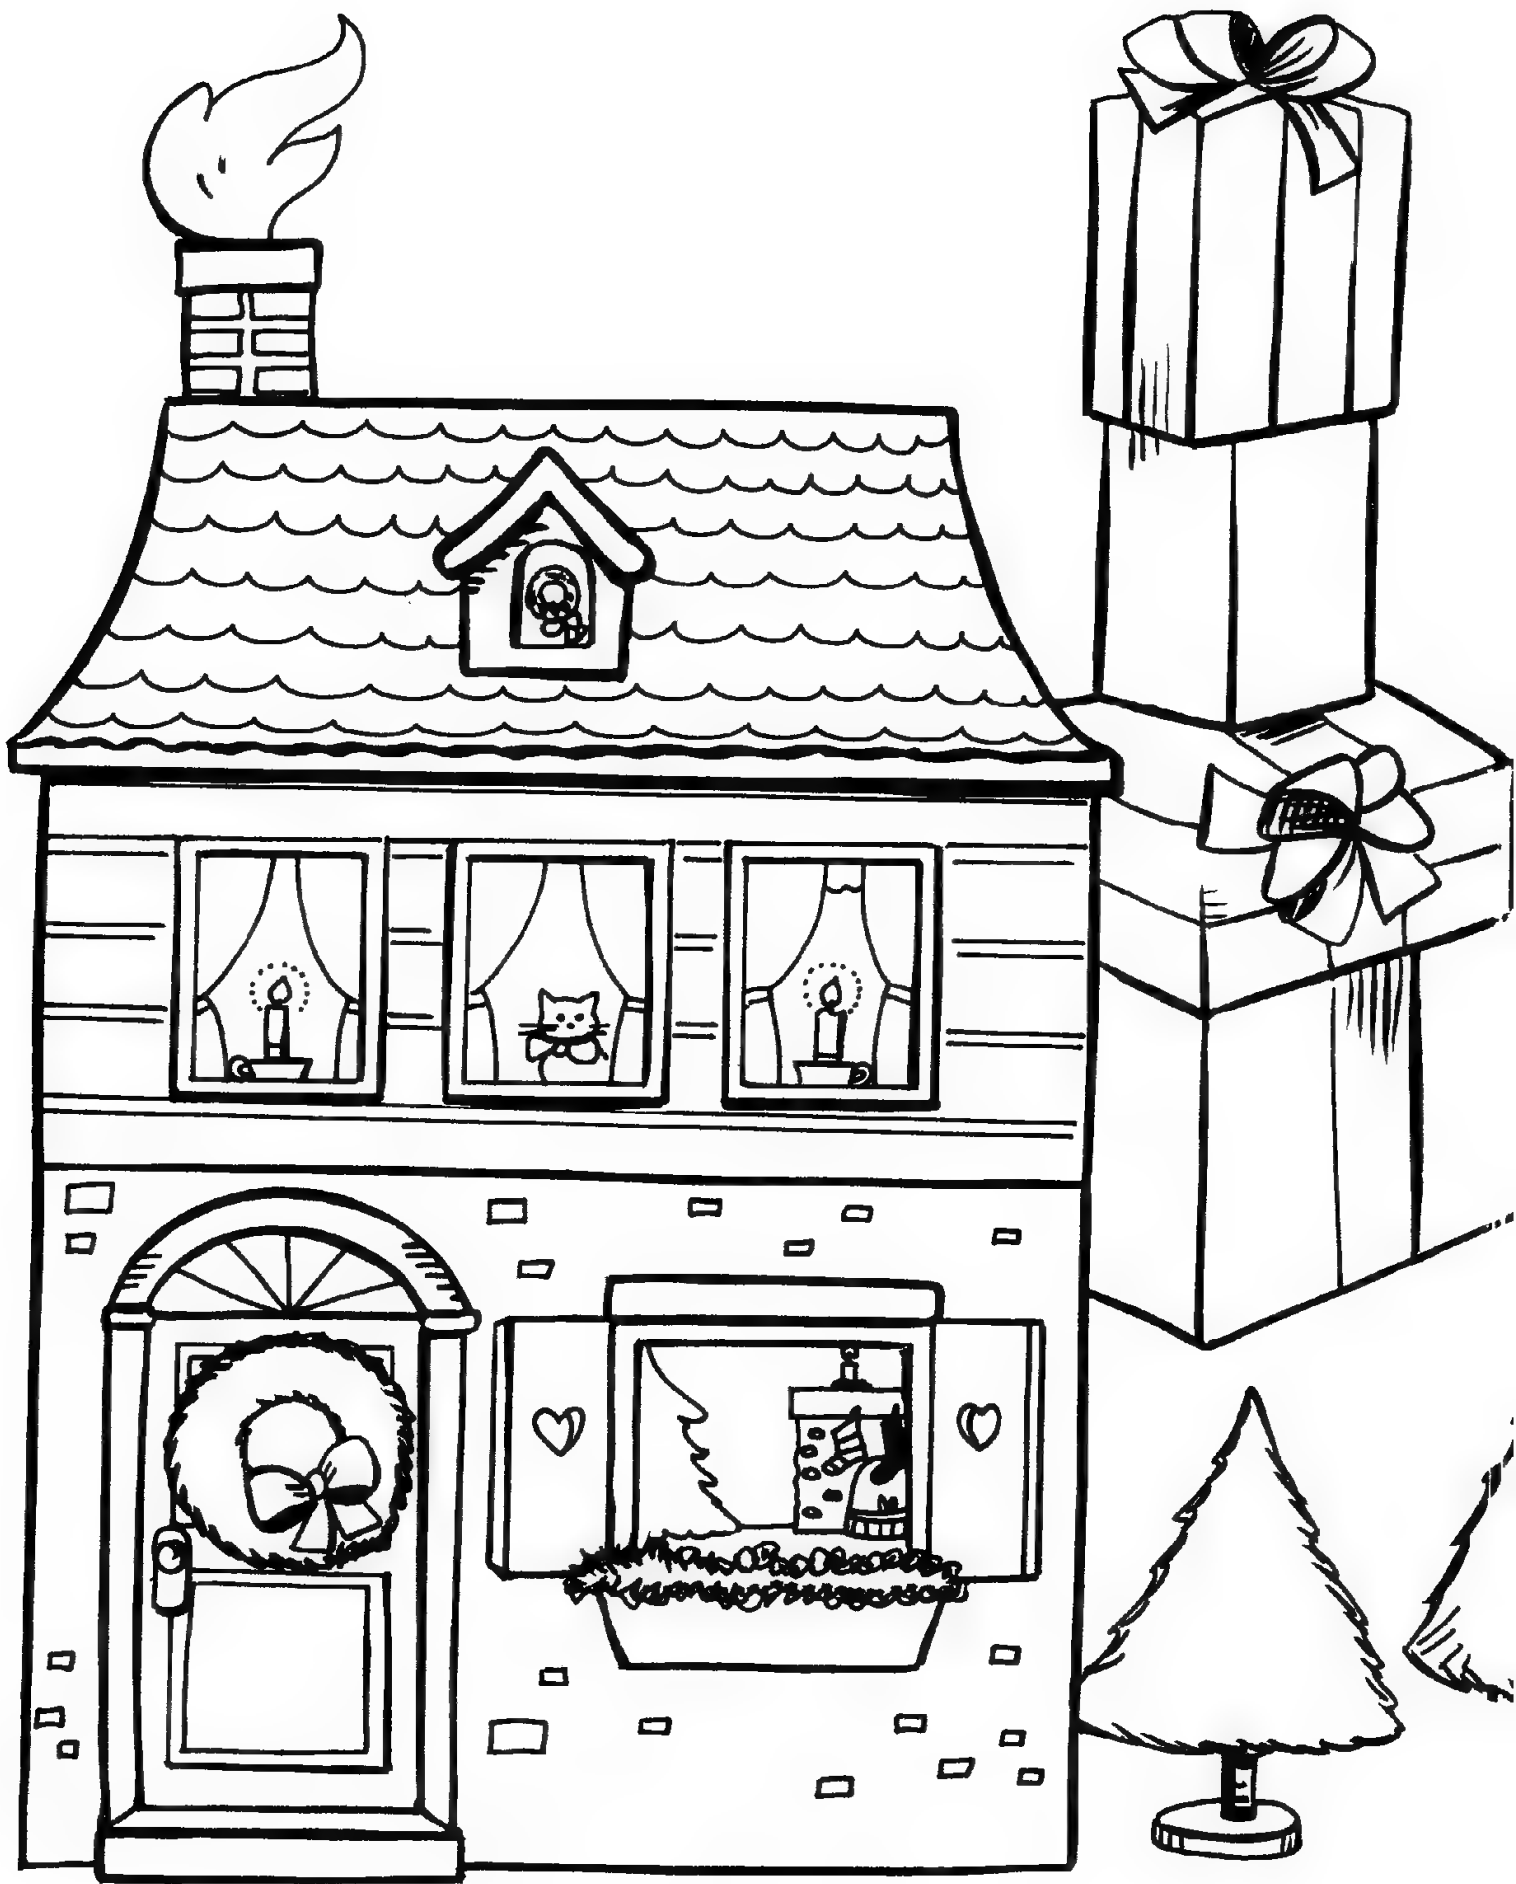

Tim asked for this wagon—color it red.

Bonnie asked Santa for a big set of trains.

She loves to play with trains on days when it rains!

This 10-room dollhouse is going to Jill . . .

... and this rocking horse was made for a little boy named Bill.

The Smith twins wrote Santa and asked for these violins . . .

... and a little girl named Allison wants a top that spins.

This bicycle was made for Jenny . . .

... and this tricycle is for her sister Penny.

Jack asked Santa for a Jack-in-the-box . . .

... and Josh asked Santa for this great set of blocks.

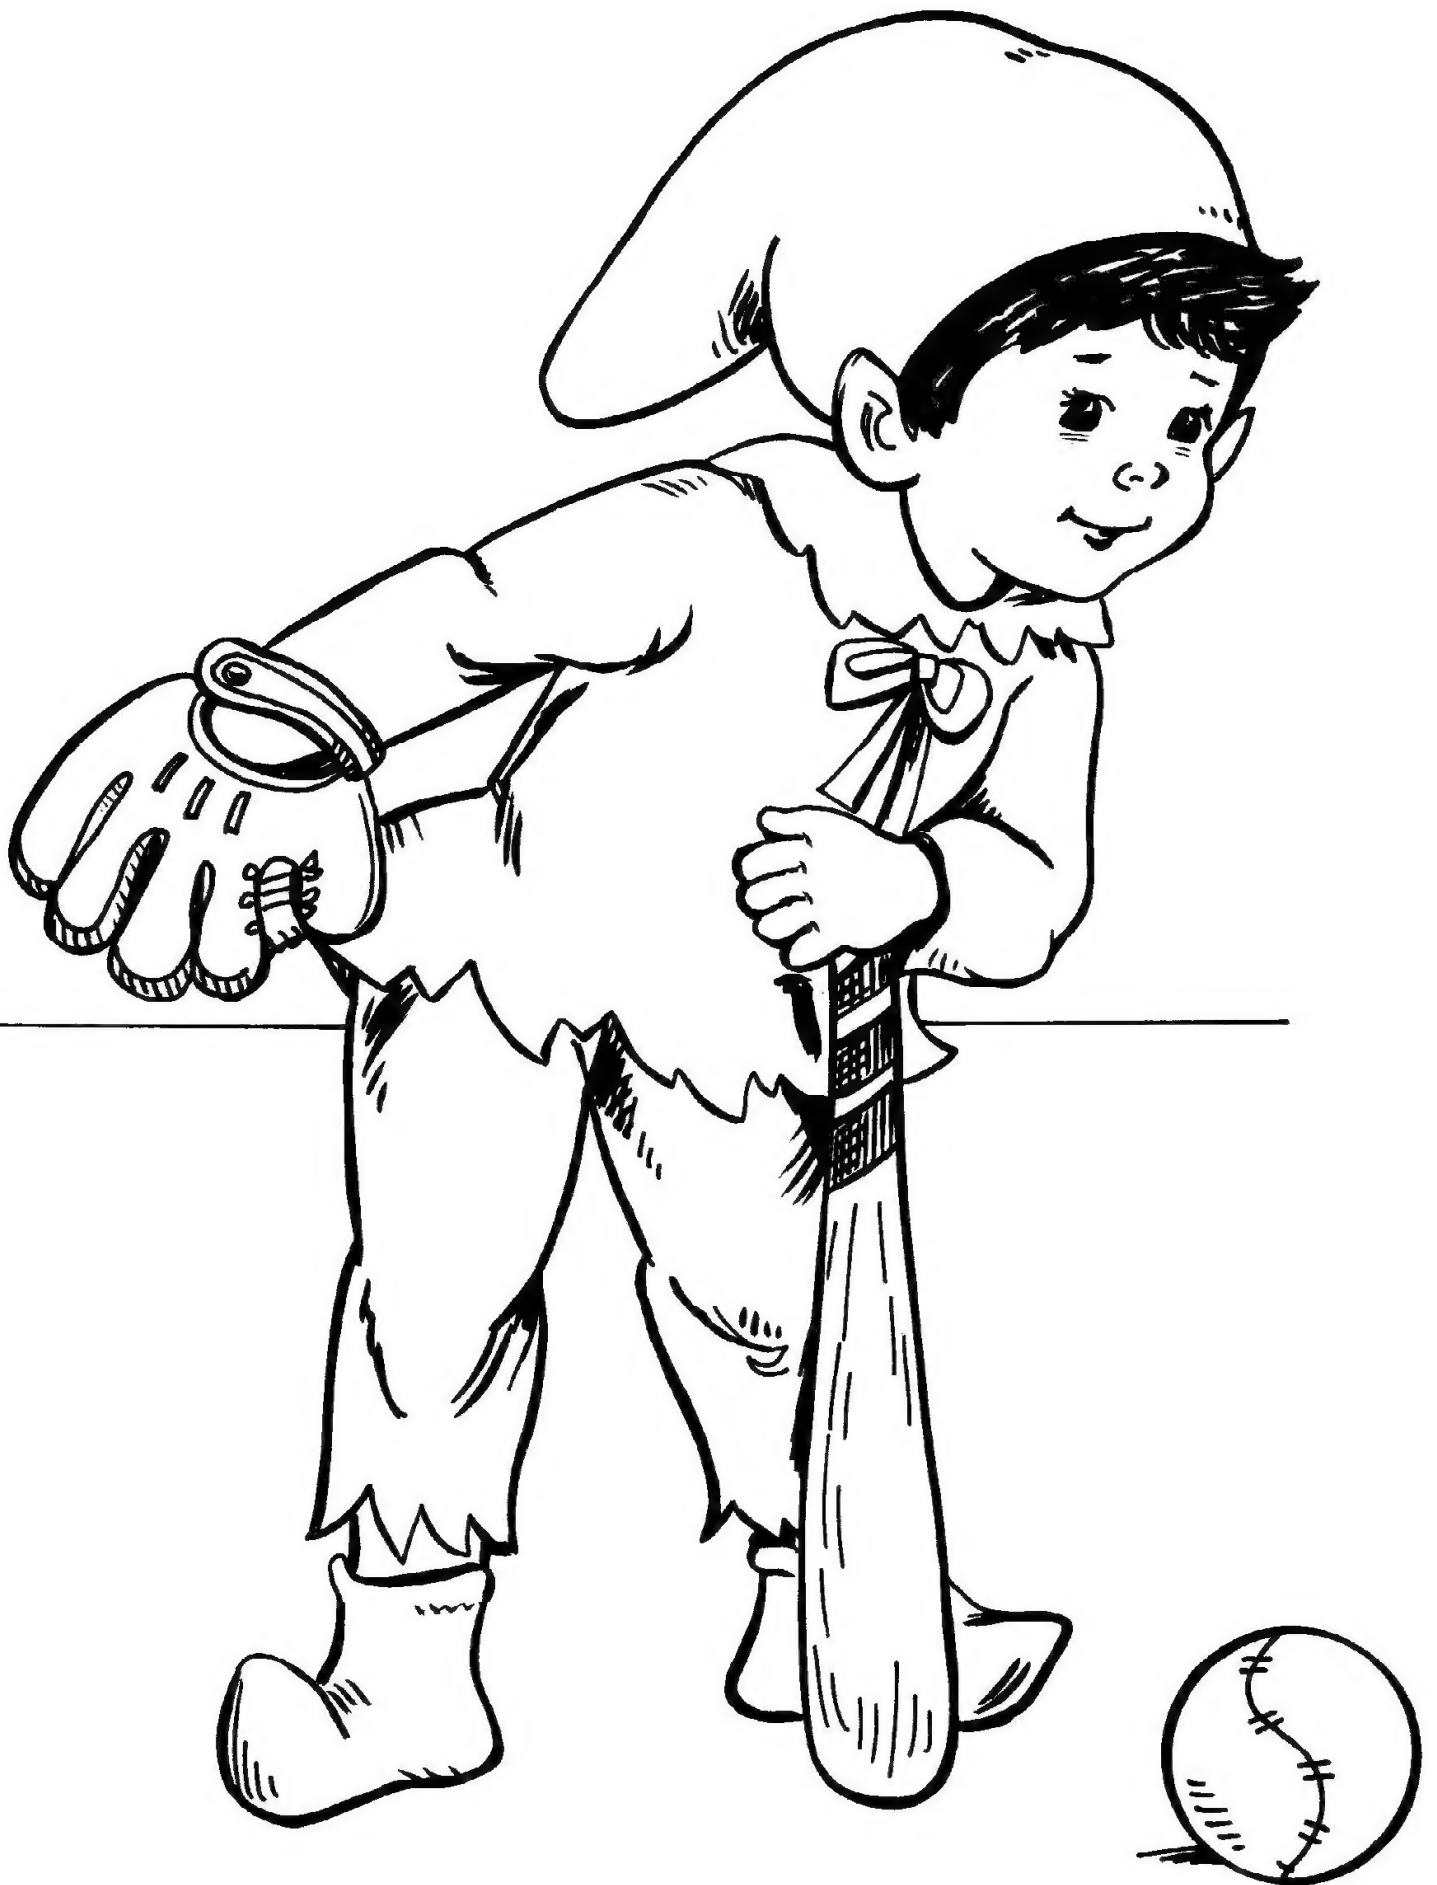

This paint set's for a girl named Kerry . . .

... and this robot's for a boy named Jerry.

Cassie wants a doctor's kit.

Sam wants a baseball bat and mitt.

And along with these toys for each girl and boy, are Santa's best wishes for a Christmas filled with joy!
